The YFA and YCCD have a cohort agreement since 2007.

There is no evidence that raising class size is good for students.

Labs are a lot of work, so the load for them should be increased.

YCCD FTES/FTEF efficiency is better than most districts in the cohort.

YCCD wastes money unnecessarily (e.g., Ferrilli contract).

YCCD reached other goals (e.g., 10% reserve). So, why is getting faculty to median any different?

The District has several instances of negotiating in bad faith.

Fact-finding is here within days. Shouldn't we settle this contract?

Isn't the District concerned about long-term relationship damage with faculty?
